

BUSY SESSION OF THE MASON CIRCUIT COURT IS CERTAIN

Many Prominent Cases To Be Tried During the September Term Which Opens on Monday, September 5th With a Big Docket.

More than eighty cases will be on the docket of the September term of the Mason circuit court which will open at the Mason county court house on Monday, September 5th and indications are that this will be a very busy session of court.

Commonwealth's Attorney B. S. Grannis, who has spent the past two months in Europe, is not expected to be here at the opening of court and the Commonwealth's business will be in the hands of County Attorney W. H. Rees but Mr. Grannis is expected within a short time after court opens.

Besides a number of very important civil actions set down for the approaching term, there are now in jail some ten or twelve prisoners held from the inferior courts and there are several on bond for a hearing before the grand jury which will be empaneled at the opening of the regular term.

Probably one of the most important cases likely to be tried this term of court will be the Sparh will case which is an attempt of relatives of the late A. C. Sparh to break the probated will of the deceased. In this case there is much involved and its progress will be watched with very keen interest by the citizens of Maysville.

Sam Middleman has opened the old Hunsicker Coal Yard at East Second and Union streets, selling strictly the famous Black Betsy Lump Coal, mined on the Kanawha River. This coal is well known for its quality. He is in position to make deliveries by truck to points within a radius of ten to fifteen miles of Maysville at a reasonable charge per bushel. When you purchase coal from Mr. Middleman you get the straight Black Betsy coal and in no case mixed with cheap, inferior grades of low quality. "Phone No. 496. 28Ang-ft

FALL FROM BUGGY NOT SO SERIOUS AS THOUGHT

Aged Forest Avenue Resident Suffers Bad Bruises in Fall From Buggy But Skull Is Not Fractured.

Mr. Jesse Marshall, aged 66, of Forest avenue, who fell from a buggy on the Germantown road returning from the fair Friday afternoon is not so seriously injured as was at first thought. Friday evening it was feared by physicians that he might have suffered a slight skull fracture as he struck on his head in the fall but Saturday morning he is much better and able to sit up although there are several bad cuts on the back of his head.

Mr. Marshall was driving a horse he had just bought in that neighborhood and returning toward Maysville, the horse endeavored to turn out a road which lead to her former home. The buggy upset and Mr. Marshall held to the lines. He was thrown onto his head and dragged quite a distance. Besides the cuts on the head, Mr. Marshall has several bruises on his body.

NEAR ACCIDENT AT PULLEY WORKS.

While at work at the Ohio Valley Pulley Works Friday Messrs. Horace Hornback and Fred Watson narrowly escaped serious injury when a power bit with which they were boring a pulley clogged and threw the pulley past them. The heavy wheel grazed Mr. Hornback's arm but did him no serious injury.

TO INSPECT MASONIC CHAPTER AT CYNTHIANA.

The local chapter will confer the degree of Most Excellent Master. A number of visitors from a distance is expected.

GREAT INTEREST IN SUNDAY'S BALL GAME.

Interest in Sunday's ball game between the locals and the strong Ripley team is very keen and a great crowd of fans is expected to be on hand. Ripley's team is considered about the strongest in this section and Maysville fans are confidently expecting the locals to defeat them Sunday.

LAST BIG DAY OF GERMANTOWN FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWD

Thousands of People to Crowd Germantown Fair Grounds today—Hundreds Go From Maysville Early.

The Germantown Fair grounds will be crowded today with thousands of people from all parts of Mason, Bracken and Robertson counties and there will also be scores of people from other nearby counties to take in the last big day of the biggest fair the Germantown Fair Association has ever staged on the famous old grounds.

In many respects this has been the best year in the Old Reliable's history. Those who have attended regularly report that never before have there been so many entries of all sorts of livestock as there is this season. The stable room was crowded from the opening day up to Saturday. The show rings have been most attractive and the judges have had no little trouble in getting their decisions settled, so close have been many of the entries.

The Poultry Show has been a feature and the outside attractions have been many and have been well patronized. The order on the grounds thus far has been wonderful, much to the credit of the splendid special police department in charge of the grounds. One of the big features of the meeting has been the splendid concerts given by the Kentucky Cardinal Band. The band has never made better music than it has made this year at Germantown and the members of the band are getting in splendid condition for their engagements this summer at Lexington and Columbia.

Saturday being the final day of the meeting, there will be much activity on the grounds this evening in getting things in readiness to leave. The night shows on Thursday and Friday nights were great successes and will no doubt be repeated again next season.

WORK ON NEW GROCERY AND MEAT MARKET TO START

Contractors will begin work Monday or Tuesday on the Power building recently purchased by Messrs. Wm. Wells and Fred Cablish. This entire building will be changed. A first class combination meat market and grocery store will be operated. Mr. Wells will be in charge of the meat market and Mr. Cablish in charge of the grocery.

MEAT STORE CHANGES HANDS ON MONDAY.

The Cablish & Pollitt Meat store in Market street which was recently purchased by Messrs. Edward Schwartz and Lee Haannan will change hands on next Monday. The store will be operated under firm name of Schwartz & Haannan and these well known and experienced meat men will see that nothing but first class material is used.

As grounds she charges her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment and further charges that he has failed to provide for her. She asks a divorce and to be restored to her maiden name, Mable Norman.

BOOTS GOES TO LEWIS FOR EXAMINATION MONDAY.

GOLD DOLLARS MAY BE SOLD TO FINANCE GRANT MEMORIAL

Bills Introduced in House and Senate Authorizing Coining of 200,000 Gold Coins To Be Sold for Memorial Projects.

Because General U. S. Grant attended school in Maysville when a young man and because his birthplace and home is located only a few miles from this place in Ohio, great interest will be taken here in the success with which the Grant Centennial Association is meeting in its efforts to erect suitable memorials to the General.

The House Coinage committee has reported favorably upon the bill which authorizes the coining of 200,000 gold dollars to be sold as souvenirs to raise funds for the Association's undertakings.

There are two bills pending for this undertaking. One was introduced by Congressman Kearns in the House and the other by Senator Willis in the Senate. They are identical and this procedure was undertaken that when time for action came, quicker adoption could be secured.

The first, or preliminary work after preparation of the bill was to set before the Coinage Committee the purpose of the undertaking. First, the question was raised of whether the coins should be gold or silver. This was granted as first requested to be of gold. Those in charge of the bill have explained that memorials are to be erected through the sale of the coins at Georgetown and Bethel, and a highway built from New Richmond to Point Pleasant, the birthplace of General Grant, and that their issuance called for no obligation for the government which will be reimbursed through their sale.

Private information from Washington is to the effect that the bill will be presented for passage before the adjournment of the national law-making bodies, and with this the President's signature can readily be obtained. This will mean that the coins can be made and placed for sale in banks within the next few months.

The Centennial Association feel that these coins will be eagerly sought and this part of the undertaking soon completed.

SEIZED BOOZE TO BE DISPOSED OF

Where Storage Charges Are Accruing—Vehicles Captured By Dry Officials To Go Same Route.

Washington, August 27.—Immediate disposal of liquors seized under the national prohibition act on which storage charges are accruing was ordered today by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Instructions were sent to Federal prohibition directors and internal revenue collectors to request the U. S. attorneys in their districts to petition the courts for disposition orders for all seized liquors, automobiles, boats or other vehicles taken by the government for violations of the prohibition laws.

Liquor such as "moonshine," adulterated and low proof liquor, having no commercial value, should be destroyed, Mr. Haynes said, while the higher proof and unadulterated liquor should be diverted to commercial, but not beverage, uses.

Incomplete reports from the various districts, Mr. Haynes said, estimate the total value of good liquors held by the government at about $1,000,000.

GETTING COURT DOCKET READY.

Circuit Clerk James B. Key is now busily engaged in getting the docket ready for the September term of Circuit Court. Friday was the last day for the filing of suits for September appearance and Mr. Key was kept very busy the most of the day.

MANY BANKS WERE MENACED IN BIG SCHEME

Fully Forty-Eight Financial Institutions Involved in Plan Uncovered to Swindle Millions.

Chicago, August 27.—The financial failure of at least forty-eight banks and kindred institutions in the middle west would have resulted had all the operations of Chas. W. French and John W. Worthington been carried to a successful conclusion. It was declared today by John V. Clinch, assistant U. S. District Attorney.

The statement was made after an examination of $21,000,000 in spurious securities and fraudulent notes seized from various enterprises sponsored by the alleged heads of the "swindling trust" and the mail robbery group, who with assistants are being held here.

Not only were financial institutions to be involved, but some of the biggest financial men in the country were listed as prospects. The names of hundreds of prospective victims of the machinations of the financial wizards was found in the possession of Alva Harshman, French's secretary, according to the assistant district attorney.

Among the names listed was found that of Coleman Du Pont, U. S. Senator from Delaware, and wealthy manufacturer of explosives. Scores of other names prominent in the financial world were found in this "ledger of lambs."

In contrast to the dealings of the alleged swindlers in millions and their plans to wreck scores of banks, a pleasure was presented Thursday of the activities of the same group in what federal authorities termed the "poker's field"—cleaning war savings stamps.

Casper Staub, Jr., a dealer in foreign stamps, told Mr. Clinch that Worthington had tried to sell him some war savings stamps and when shown stamps seized in a raid on Worthington's office, declared they were cancelled stamps and had been cleaned by being washed in acid.

A PRIVILEGE WORTH PAYING FOR

With the industries of all other countries protesting against the imposition of protective duties at American ports, it begins to look as though there is real need for return to the Republican protective principle. The Republican Congress does not propose to shut out importations entirely but merely to impose a tax which will put the American producer on something like an equality with his foreign competitor in our own markets. The American producer not only pays local, state and Federal taxes, but he pays the American standard of wages and maintains American standards of working conditions. He buys American raw materials where available. This being true, why shouldn't the foreign importer be required to pay an import tax for the privilege of marketing his cheap products here?

A PLAN TO BE CHANGED.

One of the great industries of the United States is the manufacture of film for kodaks, motion picture cameras, etc. One of the numerous firms manufacturing film in the United States pays taxes to the amount of $5,000,000 a year. European firms manufacturing similar products are permitted to ship the film in free of duty, keeping the selling price just under the American price and putting in their own pockets the huge profits incident to their lower costs of production. That is the Democratic idea of a Federal system of taxation—taxing the American but not the foreigner who takes advantage of a good American market. Watch the Republican change the plan.

TAXPAYER.

With a Republican Congress and a Republican Executive striving to out do each other in making a record for retrenchment and economy, the poor taxpayer stands a pretty good show to be the beneficiary. During the eight years of Democratic rule there was no competition to see who could reduce expenses most.

MUST KNOW THE GAME.

Secretary of War Weeks believes an army officer should have practical knowledge, gained by actual experience, in commanding troops. And he is right. The successful railroad man, the successful construction contractor, the successful merchant, are all men who began at the bottom and learned every phase of the work they later were called upon to supervise.

THE COST OF THE MERCHANT MARINE.

The money we have invested in our merchant marine fleet is more than the entire cost of the Civil War to the United States. That is one way of emphasizing the tremendous task that lies before Chairman Lasker and his associates of the Shipping Board.

THEORY OUT, PRACTICE IN.

College professors are all right in their places but they pay few taxes and hence are not good "experts" in drafting tax laws. The Republican administration is gradually getting us out from under a tax system that was drafted by the professors.

BRITAIN RETURNS

TO PROTECTION.

Washington. — "After three-quarters of a century of free trade, Great Britain has definitely, and by legislative decree, abandoned that policy," says the Republican Publicity Association. "On August 12 the British government's 'safeguarding of the industries bill' passed the House of Commons by the overwhelming majority of 176 to 4. The bill embraces two resolutions, one introduced last March by Sir Robert Horne, providing an ad valorem duty of 33 1/2 per cent. on optical glass, optical instruments, scientific glassware, porcelain instruments, more or less fitted since 1846, reached its height during the war, when it appeared to have majority support among the British people. The system of imperial preferences adopted to apply to trade between the Mother Country and her colonial possessions will have the power to suefy on the ground that such articles are being vended in the United Kingdom at prices below their production cost, or below what they can profitably be produced for in the United Kingdom. The power to protect British industries is thus placed in the hands of a commission, a method prohibited in this country by the Constitution and one which though speedy of application may be subject to grave abuse.

"This change of policy on the part of Great Britain does not come as a surprise to those who have watched the trend of events in the tight little island. The restoration of the protective policy, agitation for which has been more or less fitful since 1846, reached its height during the war, when it appeared to have majority support among the British people. The system of imperial preferences adopted to apply to trade between the Mother Country and her colonial possessions will have the power to suefy on the ground that such articles are being to restore the protective policy.

"The Napoleonic wars, 1793-1815, which enabled Great Britain to drive every Continental rival from the sea and gain absolute control of the foreign commerce of the world, the displacement of hand labor by machines, British Navigation Laws, all combined to convince manufacturers of the importance of propagandizing for universal free trade, an dthe poor harvests of 1838 to 1840 accentuated this feeling. 'The policy of protection had been practiced for the purpose of building up the industries of England and making her the greatest manufacturing center in the world,' says Curries. 'This had been accomplished. The whole scheme was entered upon for the purpose of inducing other countries to abandon protective tariffs, and open their markets to the free admission of British wares.' 'It is well worth while,' said Lord Brougham, in 1816, 'to incur loss upon the first exportation, in order, by the glut, to stifle in the cradle those rising manufactures in the United States, which the war has forced into existence, contrary to the natural course of things.' Free trade with Great Britain meant freedom to enter the markets of other countries.

"The year 1839 witnessed the birth of the Anti-Corn Law League, and the signing of the era of Cobdenism, Cobden himself being a manufacturer intent on finding free foreign markets and confident of Great Britain's ability to undersell the world in manufactured goods. On May 26th, 1846, came the repeal of the Corn Laws and the abandonment of the protective policy. One object of the free traders was 'the extermination of the tenant farmers of England,' declared Isaac Butt, Q. C., in 1861, and in 1864 the Anti-Corn Law League declared: 'After aged of prescriptive right our farmers have to contend for existence. That command of the British market which they have hitherto secured by unjust laws, they must now secure by superior energy, or abandon it to their rivals.' The fact that Great Britain, if blockaded would starve in six weeks indicates what her farmers realized from free trade.

"The return of Great Britain to protection will be a hard slap at the free traders of this country who have so frequently pointed to her as a shining example of that policy."

BOARDERS IN UNION COUNTY FLOCK REDUCED BY CULLING.

As a result of having his flock of 45 White Wyandotte hens cull to remove the loafers, John C. Fowler, Waverly, Union County, is feeding 16 hens less and in one week received only one egg less from those that were retained than he did from the entire flock the week before. The flock was culled by specialists from the poultry department of the College of Agriculture as a demonstration to show farmers in that vicinity how to distinguish between the heavy-laying and the non-laying hen. The week before the demonstration Mr. Fowler received a total of 80 eggs from the 45 hens. The week following the demonstration he received 79 eggs from the 13 hens that were kept as layers while the 16 culls produced only four eggs during the week.

New York Letter

by
Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — There is an artist down near Washington Square who is developing his art in a manner which is making him the idol of every child within a long and child-crowded radius. Any Sunday you can find him there in the center of the square, with his easel before him and children on every side. Not only does he thrill them into excited joy by doing pictures of each and everyone of them as long as the light holds out to work, but he makes them presents of the sketches. Six days a week he does portraits from photographs to earn a living. The seventh day he keeps in trim for better things by sketching the children. "It's a fair exchange," he explained. "I get the models and they get the pictures. I've sketched more than seventy here in these last three Sundays. The value to me is in the practice of making quick sketches. Then I color them up a bit so the children will like them.

But I don't want my name published because some day I am going to do something real and have it exhibited, and this would hurt me."

—NY—

No matter how much the real New Yorker may give the impression of scorn to be "in town" in the summer time, one finds him — and her — quite decidedly here a considerable part of the time. Summer homes away from the city's roar — most certainly! But the real New Yorker drops in to get a modified hit of that roar every few days. There are the Vanderbilts, for instance. I would except of all summer residents that they would be the most absent. But their summer place is at Southampton, Long Island, and exactly like others of the fashionable Southamptonians, the Vanderbilts are maintaining a suite at the new Ambassador Hotel where they can drop in at any time — and the times have been frequent this season. The Ambassador chose the most exclusive part of Park Avenue to place itself and that seems to do away with the curse of "being in the city" out of season. It is interesting to drop into its restful atmosphere for tea just to learn how many there are whom not even a palace on Long Island can keep away from Manhattan's summer days. I had my first real good look there the other day at Charles M. Schwab — which was quite worth the price of the tea. The animated and attractive Mrs. Vincent Astor was at another nearby table

New York librarians are sighing at the new educational experiments which refuse to make children learn anything by heart. Among the matters of rote which are thrown overboard is the learning of the alphabet. They argue — some of these educators — that the child needs only to be able to use the letters and that it's nonsense to have to know them in a string like that. "Consequently," grieved one weary librarian, "we have perfectly intelligent grown boys and girls come in here who can't find anything in the dictionary because they don't know where to look for 'L' or 'Q' or anything else. Then we have to find it for them as though they were babies. I certainly got fed tired of them; and today I had three of them."

Fifth Avenue is accustomed to a good many things. Nubian princesses, and wet parades and taxi hold-ups are all a part of life. But never before the other night did it have a 250 pound wild deer trot down the pavement shaking its antlers at the populace and portraying in every trot that it was having a night off and intended to see the town. Follow — the runaway buck — belongs at the zoo; but zoos are monotonous and he slipped away. It took considerable diplomacy and force and police whistles and frightened autos to get him back in place; but perhaps the most interesting feature of the attempt was when Miss Florence Heron of 233 East 69th street, jerked her leash off her dog and tried to creep up on Fallow and lariat him.

Jack Dempsey has given a pretty fair illustration of what a prize fight is. But Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, has asked him to do a harder thing than that. Dr. Crafts doesn't care for prize fights — not at all. But he has invited Prof. Dempsey to come to a meeting at Ocean Grove and explain there before the whole audience just what is the difference between such a fight and a boxing match, and most particularly, wherein he regards his recent bout with Georges Carpentier as a boxing exhibition rather than a prize fight. Jack is well known to be better at action than at debating, but it is insisted that the points are to be made in this instance with words and not examples.

When Otis Skinner appeared in his first screen play he had with him a young girl who was an outstanding figure in the chaos of HSNET. Later it was learned that this was his daughter Cordella, and new interest was aroused in the public's mind. Now the announcement is made that she is to appear in "Blood and Sand," the dramatization of the Ibanez novel. Before her screen debut, Miss Skinner's dramatic activities had been confined to Shakespearean performances at Bryn Mawr College.

LUCY JEANNE PRICE

STUDIO SHOTS.

Margaret P. Montague, who wrote "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge," has provided the story for the next picture of John Gilbert, the new Fox star. It is called "In Calver's Valley," and is a mountain story. Miss Montague is a writer of note and her "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge" is the story that President Wilson said every American should read.

Cupid invaded the Fox lot again the other day at Hollywood and stood in the corner while Howard Mitchell, Shirley Mason's director, and Aileen Hughes answered a few questions before a clergyman. Miss Hughes is a Los Angeles society girl who was stopping on Catalina Island when Mr. Mitchell was making a picture there with Miss Mason. This is the sixth marriage on the Fox lot in two months.

Pearl White is again busy at the William Fox New York studio. The star started on a picture last Monday which has been adapted for her by Paul H. Sloans, who wrote "Over the Hill." It is a tale of Long Island society, and big Wall Street finance. In it Miss White will have a chance to show that she is a horsewoman.

Charles J. Brabin, Fox director, got back from his honeymoon after his marriage to Theda Bara recently and immediately began work on the adaptation of a story for his next Fox production. Mr. Brabin expects to start making the picture next week. It will be a special in which Estelle Taylor will have a leading role.

Kenneth Webb, who has been with Vitagraph, Famous and Whitman Bennett, has been engaged to direct the new picture on which Pearl White has started work at the William Fox New York studio. Mr. Webb's last picture was "Salvation Nell," with Pauline Starke, who appeared in "The Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

It is announced that arrangements have been made for the presentation in London of William Fox's big film success "Over the Hill." The Will Carleton poem-drama seems destined to make a record for the world for demands for the picture are coming in from all quarters.

RECORDS REVEAL TRUE WORTH OF CATTLE BIRDS.

Longer hens reveal their true worth when they are removed from the flock and given an opportunity to show how many eggs they can produce, according to results which have been obtained by T. A. Hoker, a Webster county farmer, who cooperated with the extension division of the College of Agriculture in having his flock of 25 White Wyandotte hens culled as a demonstration. The week before the demonstration the 25 hens produced a total of 53 eggs. Seven hens were removed from the flock as culled during the culling demonstration and during the week following laid 5 eggs. The 11 hens that were kept as layers produced a total of 57 eggs during the week following the demonstration.

TOT SLIPS INTO BIG JAR WHICH HAS TO BE BROKEN.

Hopkinsville, Ky. — Joseph Witherston, followed his mother, Mrs. Abner Witherston, into the store room at their home and sat on a six-gallon stone jar. Finishing her errand, the mother went into the kitchen. Screams of the child called her back to the storeroom, where she found that he had slipped into the jar, leaving only his head and feet above the brim. She was unable to pull him out and had to carefully break the jar around him.

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in Maysville. It is an easy matter to verify it. You cannot ask for better proof. Jno. T. Bramel, retired bookkeeper, 108 West Front street, Maysville, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great advantage to me and I contribute fourteen years of my life to them. It was some years ago that I found I had kidney trouble and suffered severely with it. After a long course of Doan's Kidney Pills I became well and had no trouble for many years. Just recently I noticed my kidneys were again out of order and my system was generally weak. I knew it was a return of the trouble. I did not lose any time in getting a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they have given me the same good results and I consider them a wonderful remedy." (Statement given November 15, 1918.)

On November 22, 1920, Mr. Bramel said: "I couldn't recommend a better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit they were to me when I was about down and out with the worst form of kidney trouble. I gave a statement many years ago regarding the merit of this wonderful remedy. My cure has been a lasting one." Price 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Bramel had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

AUGUST 28, 1921.

Topic: "Paul Carries the Gospel Into Europe." Acts 15:36, 40, 41; 16:1-15.

REV. J. J. DICKEY.

Let the reader first read the Scriptural references, and the entire context.

Paul and Barnabas, after returning to Antioch from their first missionary tour, worshipped for a time with the Antioch church. At length Paul proposed to Barnabas that they visit the churches they had organized and see how they did. This was agreed to, but Barnabas insisted on taking his nephew, John Mark, with them, to which Paul objected because Mark had left them at Perga on their first tour and went back to his home in Jerusalem. Paul then chose Silas, who had a good record at Jerusalem, and had come to Antioch to testify to the gentleness of the apostolic decrees. Barnabas and John Mark went to Cyprus, the home of Barnabas, and we have no further record of Barnabas. John Mark made good, wrote the gospel that bears his name, and is referred to by Paul in terms of commendation in more than one of his letters. Paul and Silas proceeded to visit some of the places where they had preached before, guided by the Holy Spirit in a remarkable way, pulled up at the ancient city of Troy—called here Troas—so famous in Grecian and Roman history. Troy is at the extreme western boundary of the continent of Asia, on the shore of what we now call the Aegean archipelago, anciently called the Aegean Sea. Asia was the birthplace of all ancient religions, including the Christian religion. It was from Troas that God sent Paul and Silas into Europe to carry the gospel of Jesus Christ, and plant it on another continent. This is especially interesting to us because our ancestors all came from Europe, with rare exceptions.

God, here, gave Paul a vision in which he saw a man of Macedonia calling for help. "Come over into Macedonia and help us" was the call. There were four in the company at this time—Paul, Silas, Timothy and Doctor Luke. They promptly responded to the call, and took shipping for the port of Neapolis, in Macedonia, crossing the northern arm of the Aegean Sea, passing by the island of Samothrace. From Neapolis they went to Philippi, a flourishing city, ten miles inland. This city was a Roman colony, and was governed by Roman laws. "On the Sabbath day they went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was accustomed to be made and sat down and spoke to the women who resorted thither." Here is the first sermon preached on European soil, as far as we have any record, and it was at a woman's prayer meeting, and to women. The first convert was a woman, Lydia, a woman of Thyatira, a city of Asia Minor, a merchant "a seller of purple." Thyatira was celebrated for its dyes.

Lydia invited the missionaries to her home, and they accepted the invitation. This introduction of the gospel into Europe is a more important event in human history than the crossing of the Alps by Alexander the Great, or of Caesar crossing the Rubicon. The transforming power of the gospel is greater than that of victorious armies. Alexander spread the Greek language and civilization over western Asia and northern Africa, and Caesar established the mighty Roman empire, while Paul and his company gave the gospel to Europe and through Europe to the rest of the world. As insignificant as this event may appear it was the most far-reaching and beneficent occurrence since the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

For twenty hours this food is baked—one reason you like it—another reason why it digests so easily.

One of the important things in connection with any cereal food is to have it thoroughly baked or cooked. For baking or cooking changes the starch of the grains.

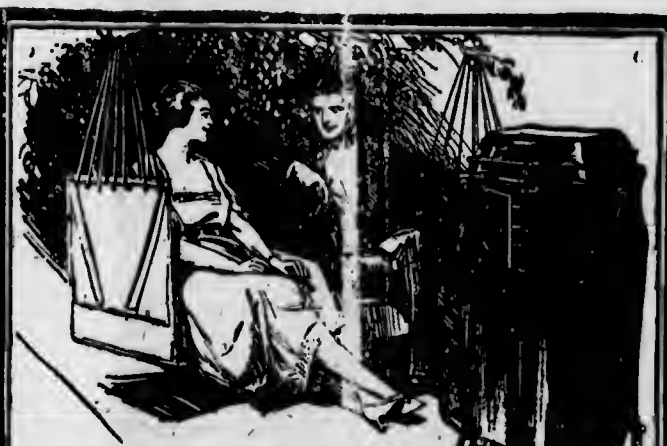

Grape-Nuts is the longest baked of all cereal foods. It is scientifically baked at carefully regulated temperatures for 20 hours. This is one of the reasons why Grape-Nuts digests so easily; why it agrees with many people who cannot take any other form of cereal without producing fermentation.

A goodly part of Grape-Nuts is converted into dextrose, ready to be immediately assimilated by the system, and yield strength and energy. A further portion has partially undergone this change, while there remains sufficient unchanged cereal to strengthen the digestive organs. It is then in a condition to meet the various requirements of the digestive system.

If you want to eat a most strengthening and nourishing food, and one that will digest more readily, go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it with stewed fruit or as a cereal with milk or cream; or make it into an appetizing pudding.

Every member of the family will enjoy its delicious flavor and wholesomeness.
